ARTICLES OF FAITH.

1. You believe in the one only, living and true God, who exists in three persons, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, equally possessed of the divine perfections, who made and governs the world, and to whom alone religious worship is due.
2. You believe the Scriptures of the Old and new Testament are a divine Revelation, and that they contain a complete rule of faith and practice.
3. You believe, that man is fallen from his holy and happy state, in which God at first created him, into a state of sin and misery, under guilt and corruption, out of which he is by no means able to deliver himself.
4. You believe, that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, became man, and that as the only Mediator of the New Covenant, he is Prophet, Priest, and King of his church and people, to redeem and save them from sin and misery and bring them to eternal life and happiness : that, as Prophet, by his Word and Spirit he revealeth the perfections and will of God to men ; as Priest, he hath offered up himself a sacrifice for sin, and is intercessor for his people at the right hand of the majesty on high ; and as King, subdues them to himself, reigns in and over them, and restrains and conquers all his and their enemies.
5. You believe, that the redeemed of the Lord partake of the redemption that he hath purchased by the effectual application thereof to them by his Holy Spirit; who, convincing them of their sin and misery, enlightening their minds in the knowledge of Christ as an all-sufficient Saviour, and renewing their wills, does persuade and enable them to embrace him, as he is offered in the gospel.

6. You believe, that we are justified and accepted as righteous in the sight of God, only and wholly through the perfect merit and righteousness of Jesus Christ imputed, and received by faith, which also is not of ourselves, it is the gift of God. So that the whole of our salvation is owing to the free grace of God, and no one has whereof to boast.

7. You believe, that a sincere love to God and man with a holy life of sincere obedience to the revealed will of God, is a certain and necessary fruit of true saving faith.

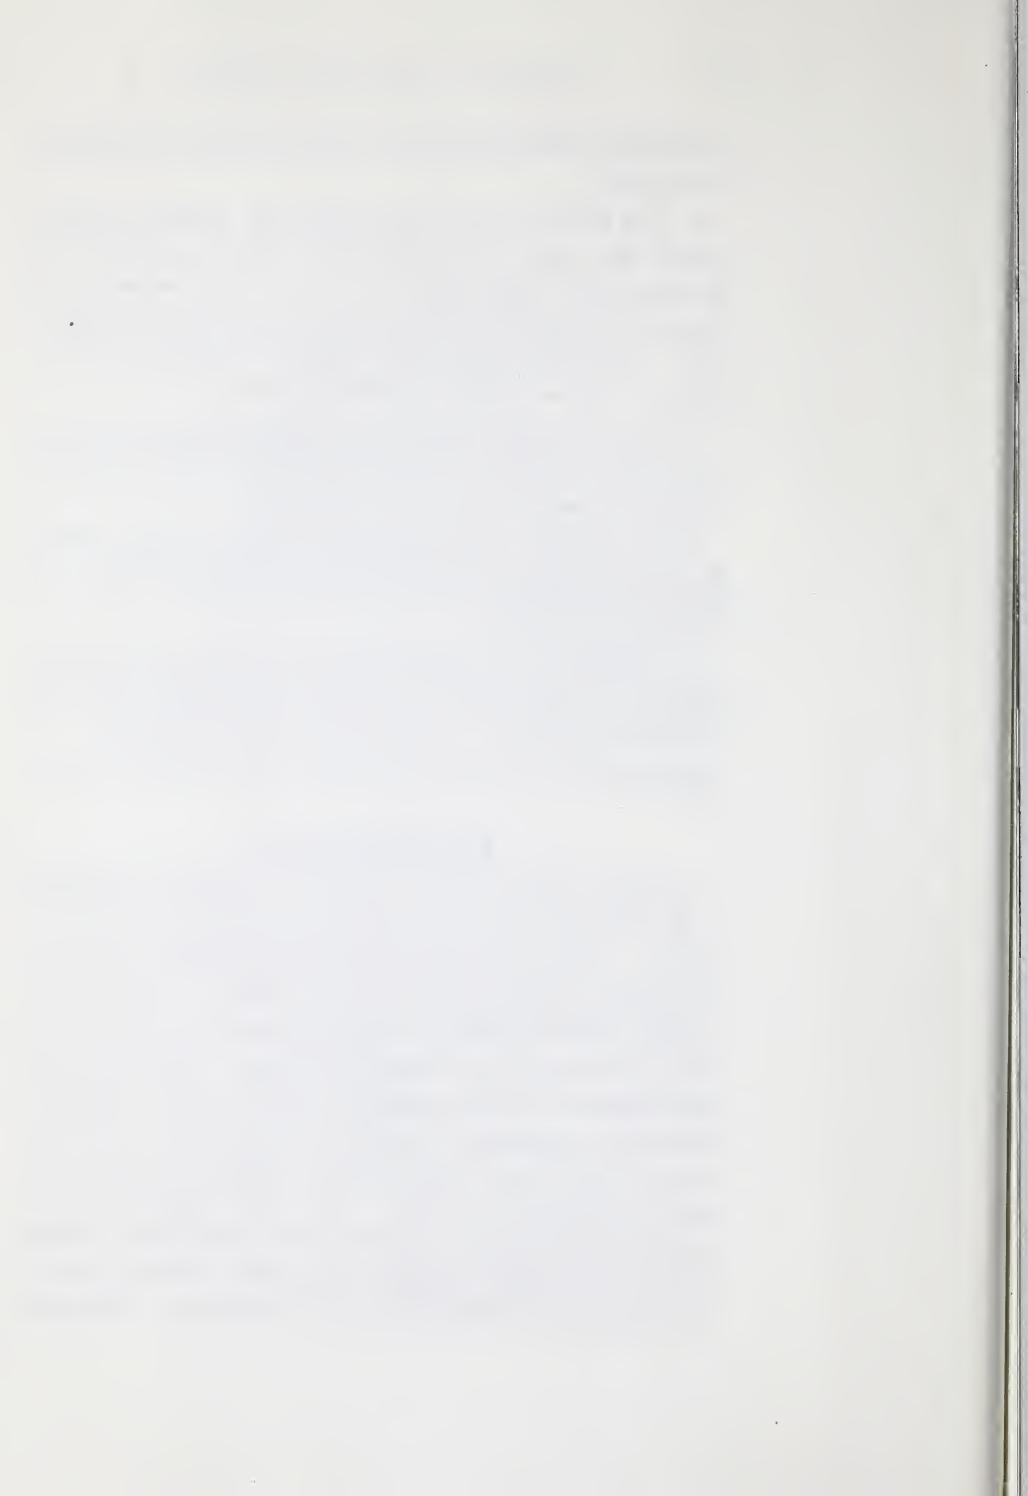

8. You believe, that Baptism with water, and the Lord's Supper, are ordinances instituted by our Lord Jesus Christ to be observed in his church.

9. You believe the resurrection of the body, a future judgment and a future state, in which the wicked will go away into everlasting punishment and the righteous into life eternal.

[Here Baptismal vows are recognized, or, if requisite, the ordinance of Baptism is administered.]

COVENANT.

In belief of these articles of faith, you now give up yourself to the Lord Jehovah in an everlasting covenant, never to be forgotten. You acknowledge the Lord Jesus Christ as the Head of his chosen people, and receive and submit to him as your Prophet, Priest and King, to redeem and save you from sin and misery and bring you to eternal blessedness. You acknowledge your obligations to deny ungodliness and all worldly lusts, and to live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world, and esteem it to be your duty, honor, and happiness to glorify God and to be devoted to his fear. You acknowledge this to be a church of our Lord Jesus Christ, and unite therewith as a fellow member of one body, engaging, by the help of divine grace, to walk with us in the faith and order of the gospel. You promise diligently and carefully to attend the public worship of God, the sacraments of the New Testament, the discipline of Christ's kingdom, and all his administrations in communion with us, embracing counsels and reproofs with all humility and thankfulness, avoiding all sinful stumbling-blocks, unnecessary contentions and uneasiness, and that in all respects you will endeavor to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour by a peaceable, inoffensive, and truly Christian conversation.

This you covenant, and, relying on divine help, bind yourself to perform.

We, then, the church of our Lord Jesus Christ, do gladly receive you into our holy fellowship and communion; in his name I pronounce you a member of this branch of his visible church, and we covenant and engage to treat you as such, to counsel, exhort, reprove and watch over you in love; and, should you at any time be overtaken in a fault, to restore you in a spirit of meekness, remembering ourselves, lest we also be tempted.

And this we do, imploring our common Lord, that both we and you may be steadfast and faithful in his covenant, to his praise and our everlasting comfort: To whom, through Jesus Christ, be glory in the church throughout all ages, world without end. AMEN.

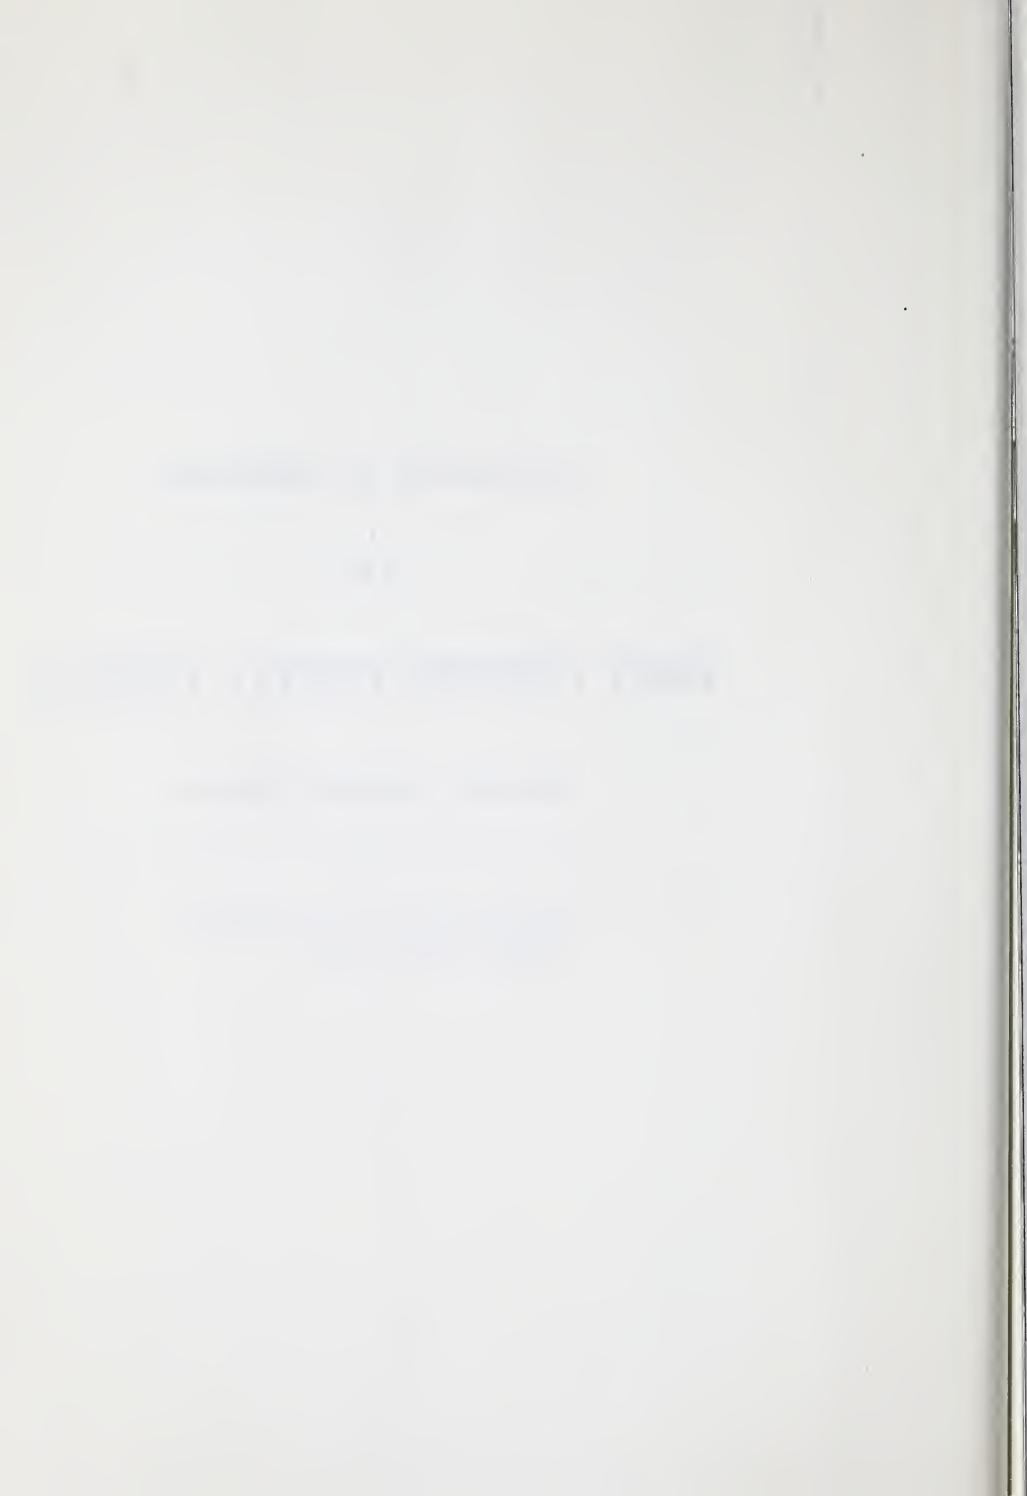

CATALOGUE OF MEMBERS

IN THE

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH,

NORTH YARMOUTH, Me.

"THE SAINTS ON EARTH, AND ALL THE DEAD
BUT ONE COMMUNION MAKE."

No practicable pains have been spared to present the names and dates in this catalogue correctly. While it is believed that, in general, accuracy has been attained, it is not doubted that errors will be detected. The Records of the church, with those of the town, as to early periods, furnish nothing like a complete registry of deaths. The private records that have been accessible, are so indefinite, that, in many cases, it is left questionable, who the individual is, whose death is mentioned. The design of particularity in the catalogue, and of the historic notices appended, is to preserve facts which are in danger of being irrecoverably lost; to awaken interest in the search for, and the preservation of such facts; and thus to aid some historian who, it may be hoped, will yet appear, and produce a work, the fruit of patient research, and sound judgment, of which this ancient town is certainly worthy. More than is, perhaps, common, the history of North Yarmouth, thus far, has been identified with that of the church.

BRIEF HISTORICAL NOTICES OF THE CHURCH, AND OF THE TOWN OF NORTH YARMOUTH

BY D. SHEPLEY.

THE capacious bay adjacent; its fine harbor and numerous Islands; its small but valuable river, fish and game, and a bountiful supply of timber favorably situated for exportation, early invited white settlers to North Yarmouth, anciently called, Wescus-togo.* These physical advantages, the burial place on Lang's Island, and the importance of the place to that time, its situation in relation to other towns, led the Indians to resist its occupation by the whites, with a hostility more indomitable and deadly, than they exhibited towards most other settlements in the State. After the entire destruction of two settlements, the Indians gave, the third time, nearly all driven away; and the attempt to occupy the town, which with sufficient propriety may be denominated the fourth, entered upon with uncommon determination and energy, was successful, at the expense of untold hardships and sufferings, on the part of the settlers.

FIRST WHITE INHABITANTS AND PURCHASERS OF LANDS.

As early as 1640, George Felt, born in the year 1590, lived in a stone garrison at Bass's Cove, on land which he purchased of John Phillips, a Welshman, who had probably before occupied it, and which, in 1633, he repurchased of an agent of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, Proprietor of Maine. Here he reared a family. He had two sons: George, killed by the Indians on Manjoy's Island, 1656; and Moses, born in the year 1633, and living, as Chelsea in 1653. George Felt, Sen., died at Malden after 1688.

About the same period William Royal, who came from England in 1623, was living on a farm which, in 1643, he purchased of an Agent of Gorges, on the east side of the river that has continued to bear his name; and which, after thirty years, he sold to his two sons, William and John, in consideration of support for him and wife.

John Cousins, 1615, was living on the river of his bearing the French name of the River;[†] and, the same year purchased the land, that bears his name. He was in the Bay as early as 1637; in which year, at Gorée's Court, it was ordered, that Arthur Bassett and Mr. Arthur Mackworth make John Cousins give full satisfaction to an Indian for a wrong done him.[‡] Cousins removed to York, 1675, where he was living in 1683, at the advanced age of 87 years. He sold his homesead in Wescus-togo to Mary Sayward of York; and, for the sum of £100, it was in after time conveyed to the Proprietors of North Yarmouth by Jonathan Preble, of Georgetown.

Other inhabitants, at a period a little later, were Richard Bray, who in 1647, bought or Cousins' half of the island; James Lane on the east side of Cousins' River; John Macey on Maine's Point; John Holman on Holman's (Prince's) Point; Thomas Read on the east side of Cousins' river; and shortly after, Thomas White, a family of the name of Holme and Thomas Shephard at Harrisicket; and Nicholas White near White's Cove, on the farm of Capt. W. Bucknam.

Thomas Blashfield, 1670, lived on the farm of the late Benjamin Loring, Benjamin Larabee

* Written, Wescus-togo, Westcoast, Swegnustogo, &c. Inall's River bore the same name Lower Edis, Pungustuk, Cousins' River, Squasie, Tocopt, Harrisicket, Hopswell, Mincorog.

ed that of Capt. W. Buckman, and others of the name elsewhere; Amos Seward on Wolf Point; and Walter Kendall, who had for several years been an enterprising man in the vicinity, lived near Falmouth Line.

JAN. 1673. Robbin Hood, Derinequen and Aboulanou Wermidy and Robin Seganouer, conveyed to Thomas Stephens, of Kennebect, "all that parcel of tract of land from the first falls, Pungusseuck, or called by the English, Westcunstog, in Casco Bay, from the aforesaid falls to the head of the river, every branch or creek thereto belonging, and in breadth two miles at each side of the river." The next year, Stephens conveyed this purchase to Bartholomew Gedney of Salem, and Henry Seward of York, giving possession by his "brother, Willima Royall." In 1674, Seward erected the first saw mill at the lower fall on the east side of the river.

The settlement had now existed for a period of from thirty to forty years; but, in 1675, Philip's war commenced; when the inhabitants fled to the westerly towns, where they could be defended, and the mill recently erected, and most of the dwellings, were burnt.

SECOND OCCUPATION—THIS TOWN INCORPORATED.

Peace was concluded at Falmouth, April 1678, and the inhabitants, most of whom survived, immediately began to return to their desolate homes. In 1678, the Province of Maine took the soil and jurisdiction of which the Government and Company of the Massachusetts had long been contending with the Gorges family, became the property of the former, who purchased Gorges' title for £1250 sterling. Shortly after, Thomas Bradford was appointed by Massachusetts, Provincial President. At a court held by him at York, early in 1680, confirmation was made to Joseph Philpot and others of a "township of land five miles in width on each side of the Wesconsett River," which grant had before been made by Gorges; and at an assembly in September of that year, the town was incorporated, as appears by the following instrument:—

"At Fort Loyall, in Falmouth, 22d Sept. 1680. For the further enlargement and encouragement of the settlement of the township of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts, on the easterly side of Wesconsett River, on Casco Bay. It is hereby granted unto them that the waste lands lying between the said grant and Falmouth hill, be added to the said township, and also an island lying between the sea and said township, call'd New Haven. It is also ordered and declared that the name of the said plantation shall be New Haven. Given, etc.

THOMAS DAVIS, President.

North Yarmouth was the eighth town incorporated in Maine. Those previously incorporated being Kittery, York, Wells, Falmouth, Saco, Scarborough and Falmouth. The origin of the name given to this town is not clear, but it is probable that the settlers may have come from Yarmouth, in England, to one of the three American coasts.

The tract of land purchased of Thomas Stephens by B. Gedney and H. Seward was, first, purchased by Walter Kendall, he mortgaging the same to Gedney, to secure the purchase-money, £110. The saw mill at the lower falls was rebuilt by Gedney, and a brisa, butane carried on, one half the mill rating for 50,000 ft. of m. charnable boards per annum. In 1682, the saw mills in the Province, twenty-four in number, were taxed for the support of Fort Loyall, in Falmouth. Judging from assessments on each, Gedney's mill on Loyall River, taxed £6, was more lucrative than any other, with the exception of two in Kittery. There were two others in the present County of Cumberland, both in Falmouth, one owned £1, and the other £2. A corn mill was now erected at the lower falls, and Kendall had a dwelling house on the east side of the river, near his mill, and one of rude construction, for his men, on the opposite shore. B. Gedney, Walter Kendall, do both do well and I thank Davis, having been appointed Committee to superintend the laying out of the town, July 1, 1681, ordered that the place of settling be "on land commonly called Maine s. Point," that ten acres be laid out in a square lot for a meeting house, burial place, minister's house, market place and school, around this lot a street four rods wide, running this street house by of half an acre each, and in some convenient place, a common field equal to six acres to each house lot." George Pierson was appointed Recorder, and a committee was chosen to procure "a pious orthodox minister."

The committee above named were soon superseded by the appointment of John Royall, John York, John Harris and Walter Gendall, as Trustees of the town; and at a general town meeting, at the house of Thomas Blashfield, Feb. 1685, grants of land were made to fourteen inhabitants, viz. to Thomas Blashfield, Henry Coombs, William Ashfell, William, Samuel, Isaac and Benjamin Larabee, Roger Edwards, Amos Stevens, and John Provender—the conveyances signed by the Trustees. Subsequently grants were made to Peter Blackman, John Shove, Samuel Lane, and to two others.

1686. Thomas Blashfield administered on the estate of Roger Edwards, deceased.

The families now amounted to upwards of thirty-six in number, located chiefly about the coves, and along the sea shore, from the north-east bounds of Falmouth to the south-west limits of Brunswick.

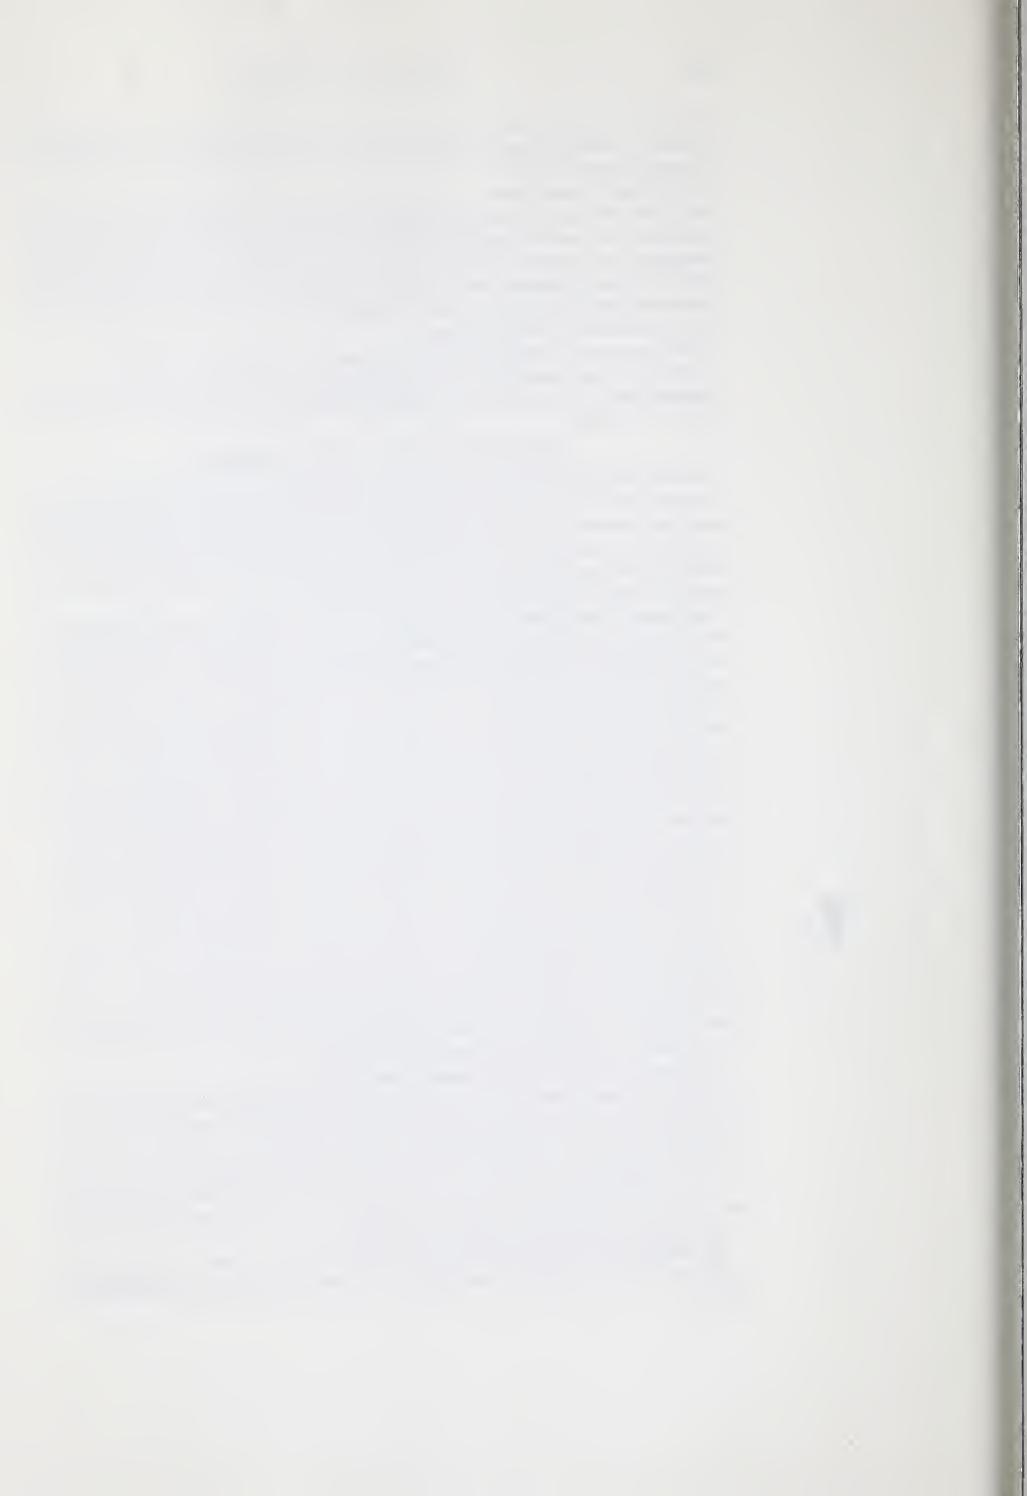

SECOND BREAKING UP OF THE SETTLEMENT.

The inhabitants had not schools, sanctuaries, framed houses, nor even bridges and passable roads; but a ten years' peace had enabled them to repair the ruins of the last war, and make some advances. These advances of civilization, the Indians were not ignorant, must be as the advance upon them of approaching flames. The plantation at North Yarmouth they regarded a direct encroachment, and violation of treaties; and on the banks of Royall's river, blood was first shed in the Province "in King William's war."

The house of John Royall, on the east side of the river, was a fort. For more effectual defense, September 1685, Walter Gendall had been ordered by Government to build a stockade on the west side, at Callen Point, and had commenced the work. Early in the morning two men were sent over from Royall's before the rest of the workmen, to make preparation for operations contemplated for the day. These men were taken by the Indians and secured. The other laborers coming over soon after to their work, were met by the Indians coming from the bushes, who exhibited themselves, as if disposed for a quarrel. One of the Larabees, whose brother is believed to have been one of the two men already made prisoners, having received a violent push, lifted his gun, and shot his assailant dead. While firing, Larabee was seized by another Indian, but was rescued by Benedict Pulsifer striking the Indian with the edge of his broad-axe, when the skirmish became general. The English, inferior in number, having withdrawn to a place of less exposure under the bank of the river, defended themselves without loss, till Capt. Gendall, at Royall's, perceived by the cessation of their fire, that their ammunition was exhausted. Taking a supply, and standing erect in a boat, with a servant to assist him, he proceeded towards the western shore, trusting to his former friendly relations with the natives for his safety. Before the boat was entirely across, he received a fatal shot, and throwing the ammunition to the men in distress, lived only to say: "I have lost my life in your service." Gendall is supposed to have had no male issue. His widow was afterwards the wife of Theodosius Moore, of the vicinity of Boston. No other inhabitant had done as much as he to forward the interests of the town.

The party having received the ammunition defended themselves till night, when the Indians retired to their favorite resort, Lane's Island, and murdered the two unhappy men who had fallen into their hands in the morning. No other whites lost their lives. Mr. Harris, grandfather of the late Capt. William Harris, of New Gloucester, was taken and led by two Indians, holding him by the hair of the head, to the Creek below Callen Point; but one of the Indians letting go his hold to fire upon the whites, he wrenched himself from the other, and effected his escape, a gun pointed at him missing fire. It is said that John Royall was taken prisoner, and afterwards redeemed by Castine.

The inhabitants now betook themselves to Jewell's Island, where they were barely able to defend themselves, till they were taken by a vessel to Boston, and were scattered in that vicinity.

The destruction at Falmouth was far more bloody than at North Yarmouth, and the Records of the former town were destroyed, while those of the latter were preserved.

THIRD SETTLEMENT.

King William's war was not terminated till 1699. Another war soon commenced which lasted till 1712. Three towns, York, Kittery and Wells survived these periods of blood. North Yarmouth being a frontier town, no attempt to re-people it was probably made till about 1713, when the town had been desolate twenty-five years, and had doubtless resumed much of the appearance of its original solitude. Now the ancient settlers, and their heirs, began to return to the ashes of their former habitations. Massachusetts was desirous to revive the obliterated towns in the Province; and, in 1713, appointed "a Committee of eastern claims and settlements," consisting of nine gentlemen, of which Committee Samuel Phipps of Charlestown, was clerk. The records of North Yarmouth and of other towns, were placed in the hands of this Committee, and, the same year the General Court authorized the re-settlement of North Yarmouth together with that of the towns of Saco, Scarborough, Falmouth, and Arrowsick.

1715. Abonazon, an Indian, conveyed to the heirs of Stephen Larabee a lot of land on the west side of Royall's river, bounded as follows:—Beginning at a creek called Weatherby's creek and running from thence south, by the river, to a rock, known by the name of Bray's Rock; and from thence westerly to Weare's Point, and northerly to the old Christian burial place, at the head of Atwell's Creek; with two islands therunto belonging." As early as 1715, the saw mill at the lower Falls was rebuilt by Nathaniel Weare, who had become a proprietor in the Gedney claim, which was again soon destroyed and afterwards built again by Peter Weare, son of Nathaniel. In the spring of 1720, the government despatched forty soldiers to the Province, to be located in the forts, to guard the frontier towns, five of whom were stationed at North Yarmouth. This year the town had adopted civil regulations, and Peter Weare was clerk of the town. His records were lost, it is supposed destroyed, for interested purposes connected with the Stephens' purchase.

1723. William Scales, Peter Weare and others, petitioned the General Court for soldiers to be stationed at three garrisons already well built, stating that, the preceding year, there were twenty families in town, two saw mills, and prospects of a very flourishing settlement; but the Indians having attacked Arrowsick, the women and children were sent away, and several of the men left the town. The names of the settlers are appended: Edmund Clark, Joseph Bean, Benjamin Blaxton, John Felt, John Osborne, Lewis Tucker, William Roberts, giving convenient to go to Mr. Samuel Bucknam's Garrison; James Buxton, Matthew Scales, Joseph Felt, Francis Wyman, James Nicolls, convenient to go to Mr. William Scales' Garrison; John Downter, John Brock, Isaac, Stephen and Benjamin Larabee, James Parker, Thomas Lawerthy, and Joseph Harris, convenient to go to Stephen Larabee's and Capt. Parker's Garrison.

NORTH YARMOUTH, A PROPRIETY.

Twelve years had elapsed since the settlement was last revived; its affairs had been conducted in a desultory manner, and many families had removed. Complaint was made that the defence of the town was neglected by government. In the year 1722, at the petition of the inhabitants and others, claimants of possessions in North Yarmouth, the General Court appointed a Committee, consisting of William Tayler, Elisha Cook, William Dudley, John Smith and John Powell, to superintend the settlement and manage the prudential affairs of the town. All claimants to possessions were required to have their titles confirmed by this committee, and their decisions were in all prudential matters binding, subject only to a review by the Court. They received from Capt. Samuel Phipps, Clerk of the Court's Committee of the year 1713, the ancient Records of the town, held their meetings usually in Boston, but as necessity demanded, at North Yarmouth, and continued their generally wise, equitable and energetic superintendence, for about eleven years. Ancient settlers had their possessions confirmed, or received equivalents; and new proprietors were admitted, till the number amounted to one hundred.

DIVISION OF LANDS

Two acre lots were laid out, extending from Falmouth Bay to the head of (or over) the Royal river; one hundred and three in number; one being reserved for the town minister, one for the ministry forever, and one for the support of schools. The ancient proprietors were allowed to have lots at, or near, their former possessions; to the remainder, the division was made by lot, the Committee having met for that purpose, June 16, 1727, at the house of James Parker.

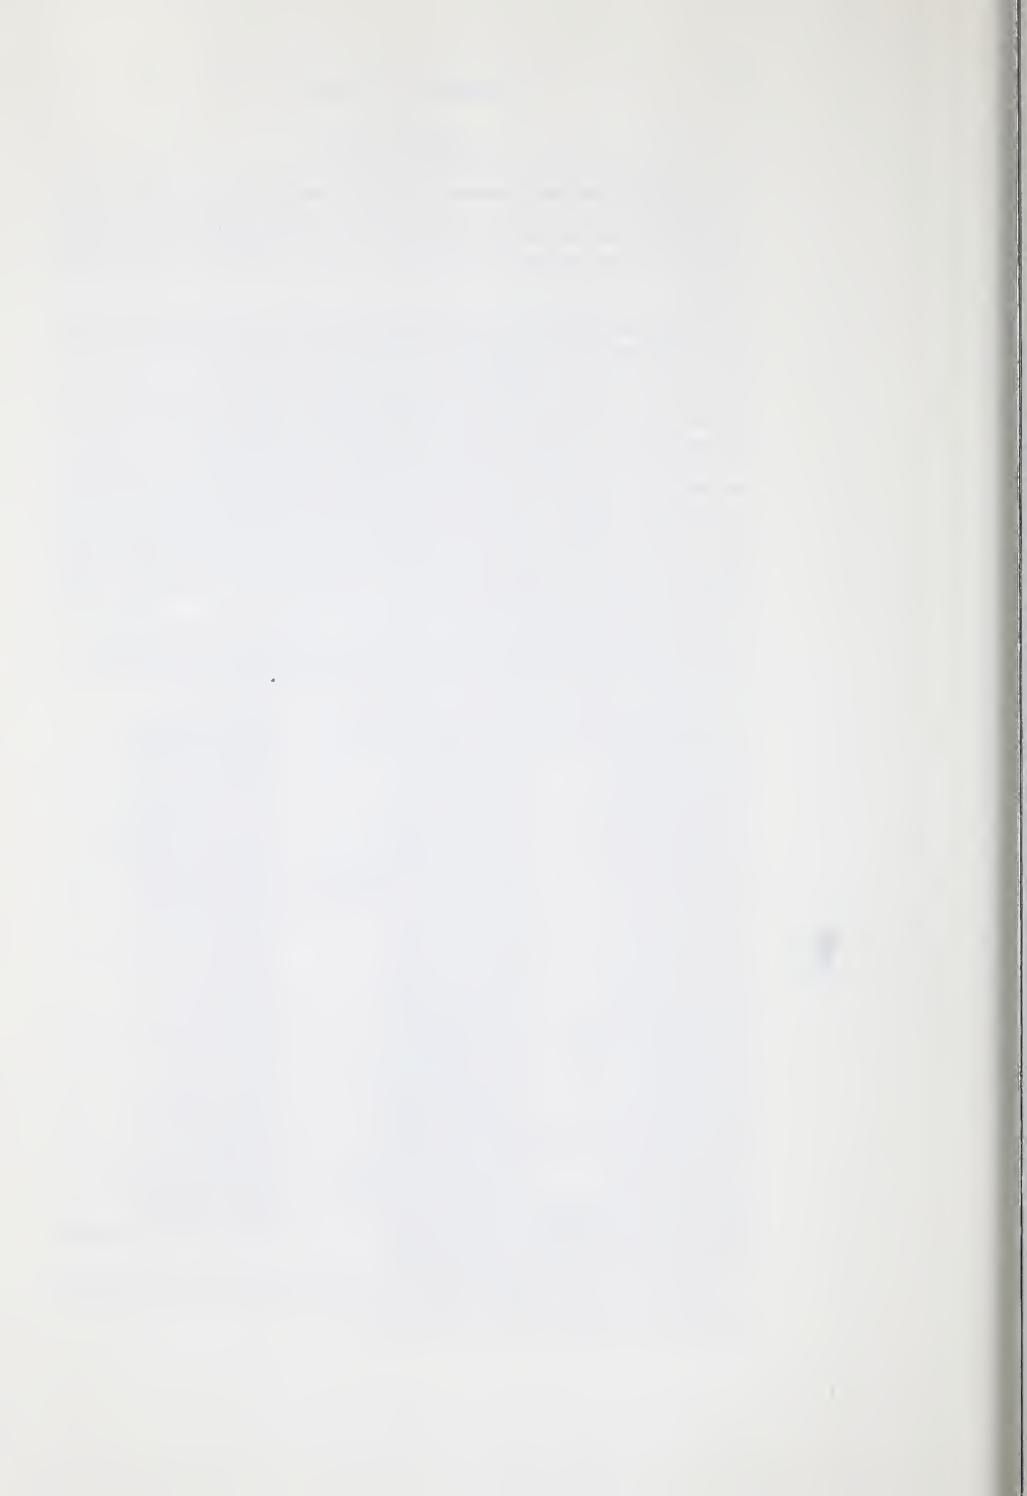

Every man admitted to draw was obliged, within two years, to erect and well finish a convenient dwelling house; to clear and fence five acres of land, and by himself, or some able body, name, reside in town the aforesaid term of time. A meeting-house was to be built within three years, and also a minister's house; and *forthwith*¹ a good orthodox minister was to be provided, to be paid £150 per annum. The home lots were finally increased, first to one hundred and six, and afterwards to one hundred and seventeen in number. Each proprietor subsequently had, besides his home lot, a lot of one hundred acres in the north-west part of the town; a lot of one hundred and twenty acres in the vicinity of Royal river; two lots of one hundred acres each in the north-east part of the town; and four acres of salt marsh, or an equivalent in upland. In 1735, a gage of God at the north of the town was annexed to it, which was divided into thirteen squalidrons of four hundred and fifty acres, and thirteen of two hundred and fifty acres each. Nine house lots were one of each. In 1752, a division was made of from ninety to one hundred islands, containing one thousand three hundred and thirty-five acres, seventy-seven rods.

The home lots were small, and near to each other for purposes of mutual defence. The lands about the river were made a distinct division, because the title to them was contested.

Of the above proprietors, who were subsequently inhabitants of the town, several were to such till some time after the home lots were drawn.

STRUGGLES WITH ADVERSE CIRCUMSTANCES.

Nothing like the rapid advances in obtaining the conveniences and comforts of life, witnessed in later times, was known at the beginning. Most of the fathers lived not to enjoy the state of independence and ease, in which, through encountering hardships and perils, they placed their descendants. There is evidence that their industry was as indefatigable as it was necessary; but their struggles with the hardships incident to their condition were severe and protracted.

The settlement suffered much from the fact, that many of the proprietors were not, and did not intend to be, inhabitants, and felt no common interest with the settlers for the welfare of the town. James Parker, 1728, writing to the Committee, states that but twelve men were settled on the home lots, seven on their own lots, and five as tenants. He complains of proprietors, that they are more ready to lease than to settle; and of the tenants, that they neglect their lots, and employ themselves in cutting wood and timber from the commons, and even on other men's lots. "I have this day seen the choicest timber cut down and sawn into bolts for staves. Transient men come down in gangs and cut from the islands; of whom there are now nineteen on Gebeeg, and several vessels cutting their loads. Thus it has been all winter." In a communication of Jacob Mitchell and eight other inhabitants, 1729, in relation to these transient men, it is said, "Every tree that is fit for masts, or staves, or shingles, and many other sorts of timber, they send away."

The committee at Boston, however wise, and generally honorable, in their own right, and in that of relatives, were considerably interested; and, from their location, were, not unaturally, more subject to the influence of non-resident than of the resident proprietors. A number of the inhabitants expostulating with them hold language as follows: "While non-residents say, we will not have the best of the lands yet; let tenants bring too the bad land; residents say, we must have the good land first, to enable us to get our bread, which we cannot do without visible means." At about the same period, Samuel Seabury, Jacob Mitchell, and T. Bennett, sub-committee, write: "The order for leaving fifty acres at the head of Mr. John Powell's lots will not be complied with. We observe you have employed Mr. John Jones to survey, whom the proprietors here have resolved not to pay, as we can obtain surveyors at hand, and pay the charge with more ease. You likewise impose on us the advice of Mr. Powell in all affairs, which we, as a committee, cannot comply with."

The soil of many of the home lots, as tillage land, was nearly worthless; to reede far from the shore was dangerous; and agriculture by the settlers was, from necessity, much neglected. All common charges were met by a tax upon the home lots; and these taxes, it is not to be concealed, were collected with great difficulty. Edward King, Surveyor, complains that having worked cheap and paid out money for assistance, he is compelled to take pay of residents only, not able at present to pay money; Andrew Ring, Collector, that the committee expect him to make timely returns, and yet will not allow him to lay distress upon estates for which none will pay. The first minister, three years after settlement, writes: "The interest of the money that I have been kept out of, would have amounted to about £48 at 6 per cent. There are yet behind £167 of my salary and settlement, which was all due in 1731, the whole salary for 1732, and one half the present year's salary—in all, £319. In the mean time, I am at the mercy of the usurer, and give excessive interest to support myself in the town."

The history of the first meeting house is "a history of the small beginnings, slow progress, and scanty means of our ancestors." It was raised in 1729, and boarded the same year; the boards being rafted from the mill, at the lower falls, to Larabee's landing; there being no road from the falls to the place of its location. In this state it had already been used as a house of worship through two severe winters, when Rev. A. R. Cutler writes to the committee, complaining of them for postponing a contemplated visit. "The people are much grieved at this delay, especially as the meeting house will be hereby so retarded, that there can't be time to do any thing to purpose, this fall; and we dread passing another winter in it, as we did the last." It was not clapboarded till one year after this, 1731, and the pews were not built and divided among the proprietors, till 1733.

In the year 1730, instead of 100, there were only 41 dwelling houses, and twelve frames; and it is not to be supposed that many of these were "well finished?" Twenty years after, there appear to have been but two or three dwelling houses at the falls; and in 1758, none on Gloucester road above the farm of the late Mr. John Cutler. As late as 1739, there were but about six dwellings at the falls, and about twice that number at the corner; while on the Foreside, and about the old meeting house, the number was about the sum as at the present time.

INCURSIONS OF THE ABORIGINES

Till after the year 1756, the Indians were exceedingly troublesome. Owing to this curse lands in the interior continued to lie waste, and the inhabitants though living near together, were often obliged to forsake their dwellings; husbands and fathers were killed, and children and wives carried into captivity. Compelled to carry arms in their walks, at their labor and their worship, the inhabitants said: "There is no peace to him that goeth out, nor to him that cometh in. We get our bread at the peril of our lives, because of the sword of the wilderness." Mr. Wm. Seales, father of Dea. Thomas Seales, and Matthew Seale were killed in the year 1725, on the Seales farm; and soon after, Joseph Felt, father of Mrs. Peter Weare, at Broad's Cove. Felt's wife and children were carried into captivity, and, afterwards, redeemed by Capt. Weare. Joseph Weare, a grandson of Felt, never lost an opportunity to be revenged on the Indians. We might contemplate with different feelings his risks of his own life, the thrilling narratives of his daring, and the number of the natives put to death by him, but for the fact that the red man received far greater wrongs from the whites than he inflicted on them.

Joseph Sweat was killed June 16, 1746, riding upon a horse near Mr. Nathaniel Blanchard's; Philip Greely, ancestor of the Greely family of this town and of Portland, August 9th of the same year, at the lower Falls, near the house of the late Mr. David True, where a company of thirty-two Indians had secreted themselves, with the design of surprising Weare's garrison, when the men should have gone to their labor. They were discovered by the dog of Mr. Greely, else they had probably suffered him to pass unnoticed. The loss of his life was not improbably the saving of that of many. Aug. 26, 1746, Richard Stubbs was taken and Mr. Clarke killed. April 14, 1747, Ephraim Foster was killed and his wife and children taken—the latter returned in October. May 21, 1748, Mr. Pettingill and Mr. Clough were taken. June 29, 1748, Eli Royall, son of John Royall, Ebenezer Eaton and Benjamin Lake, were together on the Levee in the rear of the meeting house, when they were surprised by a party of Indians. Royall was a runner and escaped to Mr. Cutler's garrison. Lake took a circuitous route, and was cut off and taken. Eaton wore a knapsack which in the race became deranged and he was taken and offered quarter. He had affirmed that he would not be carried into captivity; and as he could drag the Indians down the hill, and they could not draw him up, he was put to death.

Sept. 10, 1750, the inhabitants, in consternation, all moved into garrisons. May 25, 1751, Joseph Chandler, aged 12, son of Edmund, and Solomon aged 12, and Daniel aged 7, sons of Benjamin Mitchell, were taken near the house of Mr. Nathan Oakes. Chandler and Solomon Mitchell were soon recovered, but Daniel Mitchell, father of the late Daniel Mitchell, of this town, was with the Indians for a period of ten years. June 8, 1741, Joseph Burnil was killed.

Saturday, May 4, 1756. A large party of Indians appeared at Topsail, where they separated, one party to go to New Meadows, and the other to North Yarmouth. The latter party, at day break, on Sabbath morning assaulted the house of Mr. Thomas Maine, at Flying Point, which though well fortified, they finally entered. John Martin was in the chamber of the house with a loaded gun; but not being able in the darkness to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maine, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maine, were dragged from the house, near to which Mr. Maines was shot; meanwhile Mrs. Maines and the children succeeded in regaining the house and fastening the door. A ball from a gun of the Indians entered the house and was fatal to an infant in the arms of Mrs. Maines, and at length the Indians again entered the dwelling, but Martin pointing his gun which he had found, through the chamber floor, and dropping one of them in the entry by a shot, retaining the sister of Mrs. Maines and bearing away with them their wounded man, they hastily departed. Mr. Maines and the infant, Robert, were buried near the old meeting-house in Brunswick. The report of the guns was heard by Mr. Eaton at Harpswell, as also by Mr. Babble, on Cousins' Island, who hastened to the assistance of the excited and afflicted survivors of the Māines family.

The preceding mournful incidents have been derived chiefly from the papers of Deacon Jonas Mason, who noted them at the time of their occurrence. Mr. Maines was the last inhabitant of the town killed by the natives. Mr. Moody from York, spending a Sabbath with the Mitchell family, in the absence of their sons, preached from Matt. 2. 18:—"Rachel weeping for her children; and would not be comforted because they are not."

IMPORTANT LAW-SUITS.

Merriconeag, Gebeag, and Cousins's Island, and some tracts of land on the main, within the jurisdictional limits of the town were allowed by the Proprietors to be equitably held by ancient titles; but they steadily refused to allow the validity of the title of the claimants under Stephens by the Indian deed, to land about Royle's river. B. Gedney, of Salem, into whose hands it fell a second time, deceased in the year 1698. After this, for purposes of speculation, many purchased into the claims. Nathaniel Eunis and others, of Boston, with Seth Gibson and others of London, 1733, recovered judgment for partition of the premises containing one thousand acres of land, in the north of the town, with the privileges of the river. Peter Weare had one fifth, and Joseph Fellowes one fifth, who "did deny to make partition." The same year, to bring the claim to a trial, the proprietors made grant to Jacob Mitchell and Samuel Seabury, of "so much of the river at the lower Falls, as may be needful for a grist mill, and ten acres of land adjoining." Seabury and Mitchell built the mill, but were ejected by an action instituted by Nathaniel Eunis, one of the claimants under Gedney. Not dispirited, the proprietors, 1741, commenced their action against the claimants for the part of the claim lying in the Gore, to try the validity of the title of the claimants from the Indian deed; and, 1742, another action for the one hundred and twenty acre division, to try their title by possession or by improvements, in both of which actions they were successful. "Thus," says Edward Russell, Esq., "terminated the most important suit that the town or inhabitants have ever been engaged in." But the title to portions of this property has, since, been matter of litigation.

The proprietors, before the suits above recited were terminated, voluntarily relinquished to the claimants under Stephens, with reservations, a tract of land about the Falls where they had made the greatest improvements. Nathaniel Eunis, soon after, sold to Andrew Tuck, an inhabitant of the town, a part of this grant; and, either accidentally or by design, Eunis' deed in the terms of it included the landing at the lower falls, which the Proprietors never granted to the claimants under Stephens, and a right to which in his life, Tuck was never understood to assert. Tuck died intestate, 1789; and taking advantage of the terms of Eunis' deed, 1795, Daniel McTurdy of Lincoln County, in right of his wife, daughter of Tuck, and Edward Everton of North Yarmouth, in right of his wife, grand-daughter of Tuck, commenced a suit against David Jones, Payne Elwell, Hannah Russell, and twelve others, the object of which was, to gain possession of one undivided fifth of the property in question, for each of the plaintiffs. The defendants resisted this claim, first at the Inferior Court at New Gloucester, and then at the Superior Court at Falmouth; not on the ground that the selectmen had laid out, and the town accepted, the landing in 1753, which was fact, since evidence was wanting that the Proprietors ever conveyed the landing to the town; and it was not maintained that the laying out, without paying, made the town legal possessor; but on the grounds that the premises had from the beginning been used as a landing; that Tuck saw the town in quiet possession more than forty years; that in various sales of lands, and in other business transactions, he had admitted the town's title; that the landing was alike essential to the convenience of the town and the country in the interior; and finally, that the suit was maliciously instigated by Daniel Drinkwater and Samuel Martin, who, having been disappointed in some of their interested views, had taken this method, as they had threatened they would do, to be revenged on the town, and had secured Everton against liability to cost from the action. A similar claim by the heirs of Andrew Tuck, prosecuted in 1847, resulted no more favorably than the preceding, to the pretensions of the claimants.

INCORPORATION AND BOUNDS OF THE TOWN.

After considerable delays occasioned by opposition from Proprietors not resident, by an order of the General Court, April 6, 1733, North Yarmouth was reinvested with the powers and privileges of a town; and May 14, 1733, Samuel Seabury, Moderator, the organization was entered upon, which has been continued without interruption till the present time. Barnabas Seabury, chosen Clerk, at the first meeting, was continued in the office uninterrupted, with the exception of one year, in which Robert Bailey was Clerk, till 1762. David Mitchell then held the office thirty-three years till 1795; and he last been succeeded by Samuel P. Russell, Levi Cutler, Wm. Todd, Edward Russell, Wm. Buxton, Wm. Dixey and Samuel Sweetser. The Treasurers of the town have been Jedidiah Southworth, Andrew Ring, Gilbert Winslow, Wm. Cutler, John Gray, Jacob Mitchell, Wm. R. Stockbridge and Samuel Sweetser. The Selectmen prior to the year 1800, were Jacob Mitchell, Joseph Chandler, Francis Wyman, Stephen Larabee, Andrew Ring, Samuel Fisher, Joseph Fellows, John Powell, John Daney, Peter Ware, Benjamin Ingerson, Cornelius Soule, Ammi R. Cutler, Samuel Chandler, Jacob Mitchell, 2d., Edward King, John White, Gilbert Winslow, Zachariah Chandler, Nehemiah Ward, Timothy Bailey, Edmund Chandler, Jonas Mason, Solomon Mitchell, John Lewis, Solomon Loring, Alexander Wilson, Samuel Merrill, Thomas Seales, John Loring, David Mitchell, Benjamin Mitchell, Paul Prince, Wm. Cutler, Jonathan Mitchell, Timothy Davis, John Gray, Richmond Loring, Silvanus Prince, Ebenezer Gray, John Hayes, Samuel Cutler, George Rogers, Edward Russell, Samuel P. Russell, John Soule, Eliphalet Greely, Samuel York, Joseph Staples, David Jones, John Drinkwater, Silvanus Drinkwater, Asa Lewis, Wm. Buxton, Samuel Mason, Ebenezer Corlies.

After the annexation of the gore, in 1735, the bounds of the town were from the white rock adjoining Falmouth, N. W. eight miles; thence N. E. eleven miles; thence S. E. eight miles to the mouth of the Bungoing river; and from the white rock and the mouth of the river, eleven miles distant from each other on the shore, to extend S. E. into the Bay. These lines embrace a territory of little less than 80,000 square acres, including Mare Point, Merrineong, Great Chelaseodegan, Small Point and the Islands between Lucke's Sound and Cape Small Point. Royall's river, in North Yarmouth, seven miles northeast from Presumpset, has its rise in New Gloucester, and after running fifteen miles and receiving tributary streams descends four principal falls, all within the distance of half a mile, and about two miles from the sea, at the last of which it meets with the tide at the head of navigation. The first fall is about seventeen and one-half feet, and the others are about fifteen feet each.

The islands, embraced within the limits of the town, include a large portion of the islands in the celebrated Casco, (anciently Acocisco) bay. Those claimed by the Proprietors and divided among them, from ninety to one hundred in number, were estimated to contain thirteen thousand thirty-five acres, seventy-seven rods. Several of the largest of those embraced in the town were held by other proprietors. Great G. bay, contains one thousand eight hundred acres, being the largest, with one exception in the bay, is high, has a good soil, two meeting-houses, and two good harbors. It is famous in its history, and ancient proprietors. The first sale of it on record is from Rigby, an English Proprietor, to Walter Morris, of Boston. In 1680, it was sold to the sons of Rev. Robert Jordan, of Spurwink, who reurveyed 650 acres on the island to Walter Gentill. In 1733, it was owned by the first church to Boston and by Col. Thomas Westbrook. Cousins' Island, east from Gebeaz, and nearer the main, from which it presents a very beautiful appearance, is also high, has a good soil, and contains about six excellent farms. It is two miles long, and half a mile wide. This island the proprietors of North Yarmouth did not claim, nor that of Little John, containing two hundred acres of good land, and at low water extending to Cousins' Island. Most of the other islands, south of Merriconeag Neck, are small, containing each from two to fifteen acres. Great Chebaccoegan, which is an important constituent of the town of Harpswell, is the largest island in Casco Bay, and is remarkable for the extreme irregularity of its shape. Though not more than six and a half miles long, and three miles wide, its circuit at the water's edge is more than fifty miles. It is separated from Harpswell Neck, for more than a mile, by a strait of the width of only a few rods. In the year 1672, Harpswell Neck and Island were sold by the Indians to an inhabitant named Cole. This title becoming the property of Massachusetts, was given to Harvard College. Nicholas Shapleigh of York proved a previous title from a purchase in 1660. He sold his right to Richard Wharton, who sold to the Peggyscot proprietors. The College prosecuted their claim in 1731, but the Peggyscot proprietors prevailed.

Mare Point, a tongue of land south-west from Harpswell, the south extremity of Brunswick, was set off from North Yarmouth and annexed to that town in 1739. In the year 1741, the town was dismembered of Cape Small Point which was annexed to Georgetown. To this arrangement it was voted, "that considering the distance of said point of land from North Yarmouth meeting-house, and the difficulty of the passage, the town gives free consent." In 1742, Merriconeag, which, the year preceding, had been set off to Brunswick, through the representations of Rev. A. R. Cutler, the town's agent at the General Court, was restored to North Yarmouth. In 1758 with the islands adjacent, having been previously a second Parish, it was incorporated as the town of Harpswell. Freeport, the next most north-easterly section of the town, was incorporated in the year 1789. Pownal, originally a part of Freeport, 1808, became a separate town. In 1820, North Yarmouth again parted with a large and valuable part of its territory, that adjoining Falmouth, which was incorporated as the town of Cumberland. Thus besides additions contributed to two others, in the extent of their territory, and the number of their inhabitants, there are now five towns, no one of them inconsiderable, where but one existed.

POPULATION AND EMPLOYMENTS.

At the breaking up of the settlement in 1688, the town had, probably, a population of about 160; in 1722, of about 100. In 1743, a tax of £52 17s 1d was assessed upon eleven towns in Maine, of which North Yarmouth paid £1 19s; Falmouth, £5 12s 10d; and Brunswick, £5 6s. In 1744, North Yarmouth contained one hundred and fifty "able bodied or sensible men," Falmouth five hundred, and Brunswick fifty. In 1753, Harpswell having been set off, the population of the town was 1070; in 1760, after Freeport became a separate town, it was 1958; in 1800, 2599; in 1810, 3295; in 1820, 3516; in 1830, exclusive of Cumberland, then a separate town, 2664; in 1840, 2821. The aggregate population of North Yarmouth, Harpswell, Freeport, Pownal and Cumberland, was, in 1840, 5760.

Steady adherence to a line of policy develops character and determines destiny, scarcely less than the nature of the policy adopted. And it is not without some foundation in fact, that the town has had the reputation of being slow to change opinions and habits. The politics, the religion, and so also the employments of the inhabitants, whatever may be thought of their excellence or productiveness, have hitherto exhibited a somewhat remarkable self-consistency. The male population have uniformly devoted their principal labor and capital to agriculture, the navigation of the ocean, and ship building. Agriculture has received a continually increased attention; even within the last twenty years, from better cultivation and the use, on farms within convenient distance from salt water, of sea manures, the value and amount of the annual agricultural products have been greatly increased. Ship building has confined to engross an equally augmented amount of capital, and to give employment to increasing numbers of men; and the commercial cast of the first settlers has been transmitted to the later inhabitants of the town. Seamen, most of whom early became Masters of vessels, have always been an important class in North Yarmouth; and a more numerous class in Freeport. The towns embraced in ancient North Yarmouth, 1840, made a return of 1810 inhabitants engaged in agriculture; 390 in manufactures; 473 navigating the ocean; and 23 in the professions. In these towns there were then 23 pensioners of the Revolution. The shipping owned wholly, or in principal part, in North Yarmouth, in 1847, was two ships, three barques, eighteen brigs, twenty-two schooners, and three sloops; making 9712 tonnage; the ports owned in town valued, by the assessors, at $128,745. The lumber business, in later years, has necessarily been comparatively inconsiderable. Next after the mills at the lower Falls, John Powell, before 1799, built a saw-mill on the brook at Broad Cove; where he estimated he "had expended above £1500, and carried on the linen manufacture;" and about the same time Gilbert Winslow and others, a tide mill on Atwell's Creek, called folly mill. The first saw-mill, at Gooch's Falls, was erected in 1753. Powell's iron refinery was put in operation in 1756, at which time there was no bridge at the upper Falls. The first bridge at the lower Falls was built in 1748, some rods above its present location, to which it was removed in 1800. In 1795 the grant was made for Union Wharf. Baker's Wharf had been built before by Payne Elwell and others. In 1817, William H. Lee and H. Cox erected the Paper mill at the falls now occupied by Kimball's mahogany mill, and where the cotton factory has just been erected. James Parker, on Parker's Point, Dard Seabury, near the head of the road leading to Capt. Théophilus Drinkwater's, Samuel Barker on the old farm for the potter, and Benjamin Mitchell, near Mr. David Mitchell's, were early taverners. Large quantities of Potters ware have been manufactured in North Yarmouth. This business was commenced, 1791, by the late Mr. John Thomas, a native of Gloucester, (Sizman,) Mass., who served an apprenticeship in Newburyport. Men in most of the mechanical trades of life now find very ready and profitable employment, and the manufacturing interests of the town are doubtless destined to assume a new importance.

EDUCATION.

About forty individuals, natives of the town, have received a collegiate education. At an early period, Robert Bailey was employed as a teacher of youth; and subsequently, the town made an annual appropriation for the support of a grammar school, which was instructed many years by Judge Mitchell. The town is now divided into seventeen school districts, and $1420 is the average annual expenditure for the support of public schools.

The old Academy building was erected in 1811, and in 1811 the Trustees of North Yarmouth Academy were incorporated. For a number of years, though the institution was not without its value to the inhabitants of the town, its usefulness was limited in the lack of funds to sustain it with efficiency. Considering their means, the citizens had made liberal exertions for its establishment and support; but the beginning of its vigorous existence may be dated from the year 1826, when the State endowed it by the grant of a half township of land, which was sold to good advantage, and the avails put in fund. It has, at different times, received private benefactions from the inhabitants, and from a few other individuals, friends of learning, amounting in all, to about $6000. The Principals of the Institution since its endowment, who have served for a considerable length of time, and to some of whom the friends of the school are laid under lasting obligations, are Messrs. Joseph Sherman, Samuel H. Shepley, Nathan Dole, Allen H. Weld, Daniel Lane, Samuel W. Blanchard, and George Woods. Mr. Shepley, who, after an absence of some years, has returned, is Principal of the Classical, and Mr. Woods, of the English Department. The buildings, one erected in 1811, and the other in 1847, both of brick, are tasteful and commodious; necessary assistance in instruction is provided, and few Institutions of the kind offer to youth superior or more inviting facilities for acquiring an education.

PHYSICIANS AND ATTORNEYS.

The Rev. A. R. Cutler, as was not unusual in his time, united the clerical with the medical profession. Gilbert Winslow was also called upon for advice and attendance in sickness by early inhabitants. Dr. Raynes was a practitioner in the town. Dr. John Bartlett, whose wife was sister of Dea. John Southworth commenced practice in the town about the year 1753, but, after four or five years, returned to Lebanon, Conn., his native place. Dr. Gorham was a physician in town, of whom favorable mention is made, but while yet young, he died on a voyage at sea which he had undertaken for the recovery of his health. He boarded with Mr. Loring, and was to marry a sister of Edmund Chandler. Dr. William Chase commenced practice about 1750, locating himself first near the old meeting-house, and afterwards near the border of Falmouth. Dr. Edward Russell, father of the late Edward Russell, Esq., a native of Cambridge, and a graduate of Harvard College, came into this vicinity about 1755, and was employed for a time, at New Gloucester and elsewhere, as a preacher of the gospel; but shortly settled himself, as a medical practitioner, in North Yarmouth, where he spent the remainder of life.

Dr. David Jones, a native of Abington, Mass., and Dr. A. R. Mitchell, born in the town, established themselves in practice, the former in 1755, and the latter at a period not long after. Dr. Wm. Parsons, from Gloucester, Mass., Dr. Daniel Clark, from Connecticut, Dr. Gad Hitchcock, from Pembroke, Mass., and Dr. Wm. B. Gooch followed. Drs. Amos Osgood, Cleazer Burbank, Lewis Whitney and Augustus H. Burbank, are the physicians now in practice in the town.

Jeremiah Powell and Jonas Mason were Judges in the Provincial Courts; and after the Revolution, John Lewis and David Mitchell were Judges in the Courts of the State of Massachusetts. Bolan P. Field, who commenced the practice of law in the town about 1750, removed to Belfast where he remained till his death. Barrett Potter, since Judge of Probate, many years, for the County of Cumberland, commenced the practice of law in North Yarmouth in 1801. He moved to Gorham and subsequently to Portland. He was succeeded by Elisha P. Cutler and Wm. Barrows, both of whom deceased in early life. They were followed by John Mellen, Grenville Mellen, and Philip Eastman, whose place is now filled by Barnabas Freeman.

CHURCH FORMED.

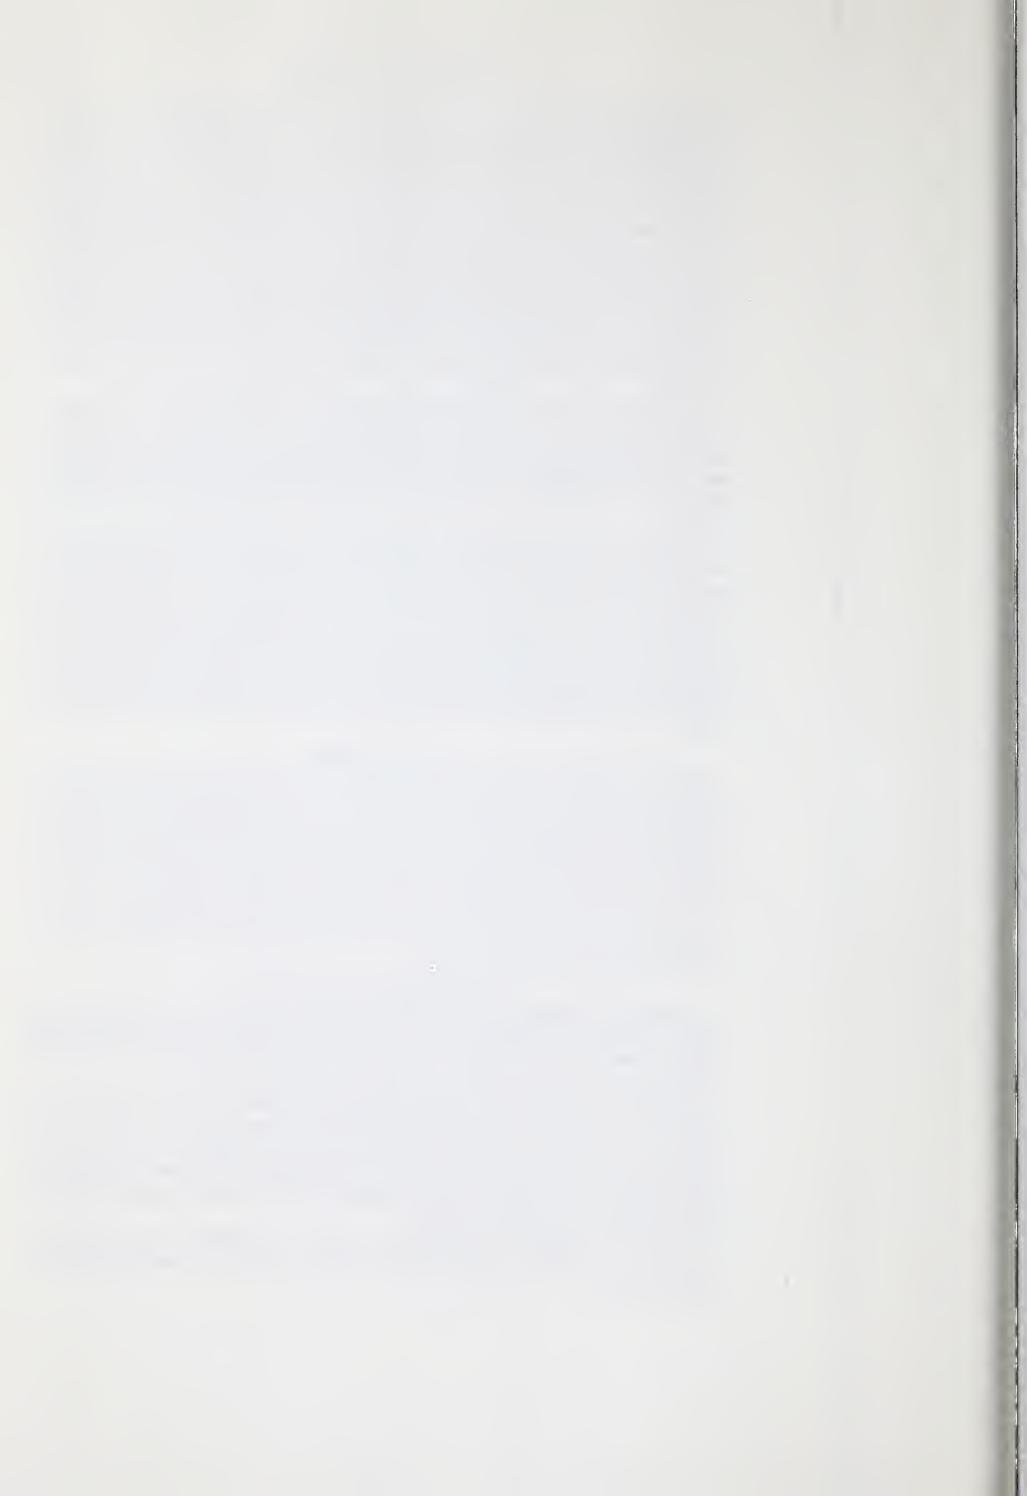

Three years prior to the permanent organization of the town, and one year after the meeting-house was raised and boarded, Nov. 18, 1730, nine brethren, Amos R. Cutler, Samuel Seabury, Jacob Mitchell, Joseph Chandler, Ebenezer Eaton, Samuel Fisher, Samuel Tomson, Benjamin Prince, and Jedidiah Southworth, affixed their names to a Covenant, and were constituted a church, there being present "the Elders and Messengers of the churches of Wells, Falmouth, Scarborough and Biddeford." This was the tenth church in Maine. The churches previously existing were that in York, gathered in the year 1673; Wells 1701; South Berwick, 1701; Kittery, 1711; Elliot, 1721; Falmouth, (Portland) 1727; Scarborough, 1727; Biddeford, 1730; Kennebunk Port, 1730.

THE EMBODYING COVENANT.

"At the public Meeting House in North Yarmouth in Casco Bay, Nov. 18, 1730; Being present the Elders and Messengers of the several churches of Wells, Falmouth, Scarborough and Biddeford, the church of North Yarmouth was incorporated by the Rev. Mr. William Thompson, they having first assented to the gospel Covenant as followeth:

We whose names are hereunto subscribed, apprehending ourselves called of God into the church state of the gospel, do first of all confess ourselves unworthy to be so highly favored of the Lord; and admire that free and rich Grace of his, that triumphs over so great unworthiness, and then relying upon the aids of grace therein promised for them, that in a sense of their inability to do any good thing, do humbly wait on him for all, we now thankfully lay hold on his covenant professing as follows:

We declare our serious belief of the Christian Religion, as contained in the Sacred Scriptures, heartily resolving to conform our lives to the rules of that holy religion, as long as we live in the world.

We give up ourselves to the Lord Jehovah, who is the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost, and avouch Him this day to be our God, our Father, our Saviour and our Leader, and receive him as our only portion forever. We give up ourselves to the blessed Jesus, who is the Lord Jehovah, and adhere to him, as the Head of his people, in the Covenant of Grace, and rely on him, as our Priest, our Prophet and our King, to bring us to eternal blessedness. We acknowledge our everlasting and indispensable obligations to glorify God in all the duties of a godly, and a sober and a righteous life, and very particularly in the duties of a Church, State and a Body of people associated for an obedience to him in all the ordinances of the Gospel; and we therefore depend upon his gracious assistance for the faithful discharge of the duties thus incumbent on us.

We desire and intend, and with dependence on his promised and powerful grace, we engage, to walk together, as a church of our Lord Jesus Christ, in the faith and order of the gospel, so far as we shall have the same revealed unto us; and do accordingly solemnly and seriously give up ourselves to one another, as fellow members of the same Body, for mutual edification, and promise to submit ourselves to all the holy administrations appointed by Him who is the Head and Lawgiver of his church, dispensed according to the rules of the Gospel, conscientiously attending the public worship of God, the Sacraments of the New Testament, the Discipline of his Kingdom, and all his holy Institutions; in communion with one another; accepting and embracing counsels and reproofs with all humbleness and thankfulness; and watchfully avoiding all sinful stumbling-blocks and contentions and needless uneasinesses, as becomes a people whom the Lord hath bound up together in a bundle of life.

At the same time we do also present our offspring with us unto the Lord, purposing with his help to do our part in the methods of a religious education, that they may be the Lord's. Furthermore, we acknowledge ourselves under indispensable obligations, at all times, to be careful to procure the settlement and continuance of Church Officers among us, according to the appointment of Jesus, the chief Shepherd of his flock, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ; and equally obliged to be careful and faithful for their maintenance, encouragement and comfort, highly honoring those that may labor in word and doctrine among us for their work's sake.

Finally, we do promise to preserve communion with the Church of Christ, for giving and receiving mutual counsel and assistance, in all cases, wherein we shall judge it needful.

And all this we do, lying to the blood of the everlasting Covenant for the pardon of our many errors, and praying that the God of Peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord, Jesus Christ, would make us perfect in every good work, to do his will, working in us that which is well pleasing in his sight, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen."

MINISTERS.

Rev. Samuel Seabury was employed by the Proprietors to preach before the church was organized, from 1727 to the autumn of 1729. He received a call to settle, which, for reasons unknown, he did not accept. Mr. Seabury was a graduate of Harvard College, but seems not to have been a son of Dea. Samuel Seabury. Rev. Ammi-Ruhannah Cutter, born in West Cambridge, educated at Harvard College in the class of 1725, began to preach in North Yarmouth, Nov. 10, 1727, and was ordained first pastor of the church and minister of the town on the same day that the church was organized, and by the same council. He was after five years dismissed. In church meeting, Nov. 28, 1735,⁴⁵ Post pieces ad Deum, a vote was called in writing, whether the said church continued uneasy with the Rev. Mr. Ammi-Ruhannah Cutter, their pastor, or no; voted uneasy. Then voted that the said Mr. Cutter be dismissed from his pastoral relation to said church.

AMMI-RUHAMAH CUTTER, Clerk.⁴⁶

A Council had previously been called which advised to Mr. Cutter's dismission, and two days before the above action of the church, the town had voted his dismission in case his relation to the church should be dissolved; in reference to which proceeding of the town, it is recorded: "Peter Weare does protest against the carrying on of this day."⁴⁷

Mr. Cutter received his call, while as yet there was no church in town, from the Proprietors, who offered him £200 as a settlement, and 120 ounces of silver, to be increased five ounces annually till it should reach 140 ounces. As the first minister of five years continuance in the town, he also had confirmed to him a right in the divisions of the property. After his dismission, Mr. Cutter continued in the town, as a physician, about seven years. He then superintended a trading house for the Indians. Three of these houses were established in Maine, in accordance with stipulations in a treaty of Government with the natives; one at Fort George, one at Fort Richmond, and the third, that superintended first, by Thomas Smith, father of Rev. Thomas Smith of Falmouth, and afterwards by Mr. Cutter, on the Saco river, about nine miles from its mouth. "The keepers of these houses, called 'trunk masters,' were annually chosen by the General Court, special regard being had in the selection, to men of the greatest probity, patience and discretion, whose characters and manners were likewise acceptable to the natives. The salary was £120, and the foundation was sought by men of distinguished reputation and influence. The establishment at Saco, at first at Winter Harbor, and after removed up the river, was kept up till 1759, and the foundations at the last location are still visible. While Mr. Cutter was here, according to Sullivan, he composed a vocabulary of the dialect of the Pickwacket and Ossipee tribes, "which is still extant."³ In the year 1715, Mr. Cutter commanded a company in the noted expedition to Louisburg; and the winter following the surrender of that place, he was detailed to remain as surgeon and chief commandant.—Aug. 8, 1716, Capt. Benjamin Morgridge, of Kittery, who had been connected with the expedition to Louisburg, arrived at North Yarmouth, having in cleare the papers and effects of Mr. Cutter, the news of whose death at Louisburg in March, 1716, had before reached his friends. While at North Yarmouth he took a prominent part in all public transactions. Mrs. Cutter was Dorothy Bradbury, sister of Mr. Moses Bradbury, an early inhabitant of the town. The children of Mr. Cutter were, Anna-Ruthannah, long a physician of distinguished reputation in Portsmouth, N.H.; William, who died early after marriage, much lamented; Samuel, who has left a numerous posterity, and Elizabeth.

After the dismission of Mr. Cutter, Mr. Ephraim Keith from Bridgewater preached in the town and received an invitation to settle in the ministry. The call, which was not unanimous, he deemed it prudent to decline. The church received its second Pastor and the town its second minister, in the person of Rev. Nicholas Loring, recommended by Mr. Keith, who was ordained, Nov. 17, 1736. Prayer by Mr. Prentiss of Arundel, Sermon by Mr. Smith of Falmouth, from 2d Cor. xii: 15; Charge by Mr. Moody of York, Right Hand of Fellowship by Mr. Thompson of Scarborough. "The newly ordained pastor proposed to sing the 17th and 18th verses of the 68th Psalm, after which he gave the blessing." Mr. Loring had stipulated to him £250, as a settlement, and £150, as his salary, silver being counted at 25s. per ounce. He was from Hatt, Mass., and a graduate of Harvard College, in the year 1712. His ministry in the town continuing for a period of 27 years, was terminated by his death, July 31, 1763. In his day the Holy Spirit was poured out extensively upon the churches in the country in connexion with the labors of Rev. George Whitefield, of Jonathan Edwards, the Tenants and others. In March 1745, Mr. Whitefield had journeyed as far eastward as Cape Elizabeth, but returning, had proceeded to Biddeford, when Mr. Loring and Mr. Allen, Pastor at Cape Elizabeth, sent letters with messengers for his return. He listened to their overture and preached at Falmouth to Mr. Smith's congregation, Saturday, March 23, and, then proceeding to North Yarmouth, all day, on the Sabbath, March 24, for Mr. Loring. On Monday, he preached again at Edinouth. Mr. Smith writes, "The wonderful providence of God is to be observed with respect to Mr. Whitefield, that Messrs. Loring and Thompson should come just as they did, and that Mr. Whitefield should come just as he did, when Messrs. Pierson, White, Wheeler, Moody, Freeman and others, were all gone out of town, so that there was no audience, but all went, and a general reception of him at Edinouth." Before this, 1745,⁴ A Testimony⁵ of Ministers, addrest Boston had £100, and with it a fund to bear against the revivals of that period. This was laid aside, the same year, another Convention of ministers in Boston, who fit bound to put forth a conference⁶ of Ministers, in favor of the late happy revival of religion in many parts of the land.” Such ministers as concurred in the ends of this last convention had been invited to communicate their views in writing. The western association of the County of York accordingly forwarded a communication of which the following is an extract:—

“Inasmuch as it incontestably appears to us from what we have seen among ourselves, and in other places, that by an extraordinary divine influence there hath been a happy revival of religion in our land, we dare not but publicly speak out our grateful sense thereof, to the honor of the free and sovereign grace of God.”

They however felt bound to bear joint and solemn testimony against certain prevailing errors in doctrine and disorders in practice, “such as abusing the doctrine of medivine decrees, justification by faith alone, and irresistible grace in the conversion of sinners.” This paper received the signature of Messrs. Allen and Loring, and of Messrs. Thompson of Scarborough, Jefferds of Wells, and Hovey of Arundel; and was forwarded by Mr. Smith of Falmouth.

Nearly all the Pastors of Maine were friendly to Mr. Whitefield. On his return to New England, 1741, he landed at York. “A friend Mr. Moody” called upon him, and said, “Sir, you are first welcome to America; secondly, to New England; thirdly, to all faithful ministers in New England; fourthly, to all the good people of New England; fifthly, to all the good people of York; and sixthly, and lastly, to me, deare Sir, less than the least of all.”

The year before the death of Mr. Loring, the congregation had so increased as to demand a larger house of worship, and this demand was met by cutting the meeting-house in the middle and putting in twenty-eight feet, affording room for twenty-eight new pews. Mr. Humphrey Chase contracted for the work, and in October of the same year the pews were sold for £338, which appears to have covered the expense. The porch of the house was added at this time.

The wife of Mr. Loring, who was Mary Richmond, of Tiverton, R. I., survived her husband about forty years. Their children were—Richmond, Baudelaire, Levi, Lucretia, Mary, married to Joseph Gray, Elizabeth, married to Humphrey Chase, Rachel, married to Joshua Mitchell, Thomas, Nicholas and Jeremiah.

The following note, creditable to the author of it and to the people, is inserted:—“The widow Loring returns many thanks to the town for their laudable piece of respect shown to the remains of her late husband in the interment of him in so decent and honorable a manner; as well as for their generosity to her and her poor little else’s children in putting them in mourning; and as the expense already is large, she will not put them to any more than is necessary, and will omit taking up any thing for her three grandchildren, which the town was so good as to order. Sept. 27, 1793.”

The Rev. Edward Brooks was soon called, as successor to Mr. Loring, and became the third minister of the town, his ordination occurring July 1, 1761. Prayer, by Mr. Cotton of Hampton; Sermon, by Mr. Haven of Dedham; Ordaining Prayer, by Mr. Merrill of Biddeford, Change, by Mr. Smith of Falmouth; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Wiswall, of New Castle; Prayer, by Mr. Odlin of Exeter. Mr. Brooks was from Medford, Mass., and a graduate of Harvard College, 1737. He continued minister of the town, till March, 1769, when the advice of two councils having been previously sought, he resigned his pastoral charge. It was a time of not a little excitement in the town, and of no inconsiderable danger to the congregation. The majority were not satisfied with Mr. Brooks’ doctrinal views. Meantime a large minority were strongly attached to their minister, and utterly unreconciled to his leaving them; and, for a time, the disruption of the congregation seemed a probable event. Mr. Brooks returned to Medford, his native place, and his health was not such as to permit him again to settle in the ministry. Four years after his removal from the town, in a letter to Dr. Jonas Mason, he thus expresses himself: “With a real pleasure I received yours, a few hours ago. It affords me substantial satisfaction that any of my friends have me still in remembrance. Although my situation and circumstances are very agreeable here, yet I cannot forget, or cease to have a peculiar regard for the, I must call them, dear people, that were once committed to my charge. To their service, and to promote their best interests, the duty to my God and Saviour excepted. I devoted all my powers, and every faculty of which I was possessed; and I cannot, though my particular relation to them is now dissolved, cease to make mention of them constantly in my prayers to God.—Be so good as to call on us, when you come to these parts, and make us as long a visit as you possibly can. Let Mr Jonathan Mitchell know, that I expect a long visit from him at Election."

Mr. Brooks deceased at Medford, March, 1781, aged 45. Mrs. Brooks was Abigail Browne of Bingham; a woman of rare excellency, who lived to bless her children, nineteen years after the death of her husband. Her death occurred November 1800, at the age of 69 years. The children of Mr. Brooks were four in number: two daughters, who were married and settled in Medford; and two sons, Mr. Cotton B. Brooks, late of Portland, and Hon. Peter C. Brooks of Boston. From Mr. Brooks of Boston, the Trustees of North Yarmouth Academy, 1811, with a very obliging letter addressed to them, received, as a token of his regard to the place of his nativity, a larger benefaction than from any other individual, for the erection of the building for the classical school; and subsequently, another donation, for the building now ready for the reception of the English department of the Institution.

The year following that of Mr. Brooks' ordination, Feb. 13, 1765, the church passed the following vote:—"That the Holy Scriptures be read as a part of the public exercises of the Sabbath."

"That that Collection of Hymns called Dr. Watts', which is annexed to many of our Psalm Books, and that impression of them which embraces 103 Hymns, be made use of, as a part of public worship."

JUNE, 1783. It was agreed that Watts' Psalms and Hymns be used entirely after six months; and, in the meantime, that Watts be used with reading, in the morning, and Tate and Brady's Psalms and Hymns, without reading, in the afternoon.

April 12, 1769, a committee of the church reported that Mr. Tristram Gilman of Exeter, N.H., who was in the class with Mr. Brooks, at Harvard College, had been engaged to preach on probation; and on the 23d of that month, he preached for the first time in the town, from the words: "For other foundation can no man lay, than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." The feelings of many had been deeply wounded by recent transpositions; and when, in August, the question as to extending a call to Mr. Gilman to settle was taken in the church, out of forty-two votes, thirteen were in the negative. The mind of Mr. Gilman was perplexed as to his duty in the circumstances; but it was at length agreed by all concerned, that the difficulties subsisting in the church should be submitted to the council which it was proposed to call, and if, in view of all the facts, they should judge it expedient, the ordination should take place. The council was convened; and after two days spent in anxious deliberation proceeded to the ordination, Dec. 8, 1769. Prayer, by Mr. Lynum of York; Sermon, by Mr. Macduffock of Greenland, from Hebr. 1: 1-2; Charge, by Mr. Morrill of Biddeford; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Eaton of Harpswell; Prayer, by Mr. Little of Wells. Mr. Gilman received £66 13s 4d as a settlement, and had stipulated to him as a salary, £100, with the use of the ministerial home lot and salt marsh, and No. 16 of the 120 acre division, for procuring fire wood, forty acres to be cleared for his use in four years. He soon had the confidence of his entire charge. The state of the church received his immediate and searching attention; disorders were rectified with wisdom and prudence, and the Articles of Faith and Covenant, very nearly as now printed, were prepared and adopted. Possessing a vigorous physical frame, endowed with strong features in his mental constitution, studious, evangelical, and ever diligent and enterprising in the duties of his calling, he soon obtained uncommon ascendancy over the minds of his people, rose to eminence in the vicinity, and at his departure left his strong impress on the place blessed by his long continued and successful labors and influence. This venerable servant of Christ began to decline in the autumn of 1808, and died April 1, 1809, in the 74th year of his age, and the fortieth of his ministry.—"The half-way covenant" still continued in use. In 1805, the Cumberland Association of Pastors, of which Mr. Gilman was a leading member, expressed unanimously the opinion in reply to questions proposed by the church in Freeport, that said Covenant is "in accordance with saered writ?" At the same meeting, and on inquiry from the same church, they expressed the opinion, that the use of musical instruments in public worship is indifferent, and may often be of advantage to devotion; but considering the state of feeling in relation to the matter in Freeport, they advised to the disuse, for the present, of such instruments in that place.

The children of Mr. Gilman were Joseph, Mary, Elizabeth, Trixiana, Emma, Nicholas, John, Theodore and Samuel. Mrs. Gilman was Elizabeth Sayer of Wells, who died in 1793, about twenty years before her husband.

The successor of Mr. Gilman was the Rev. Francis Brown, who having been named to the people at the funeral of their late pastor, was soon invited to preach, and was ordained January 11, 1810. Prayer, by Mr. Scott of Minot; Sermon, by Mr. Rand of Gorham; Ordaining Prayer, by Mr. Lancaster of Scarborough; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Miltimore of Falmouth; Prayer, by Mr. Payson of Portland. Mr. Brown received a call, at about the same time, to settle in Brattleborough, Vt., and in North Yarmouth. He accepted the latter, on condition that the usages of the church should be so far modified, that the half-way Covenant should no longer be used. His brilliant ministry was destined to be of short duration. In 1815, he was appointed to the Presidency of Dartmouth College, then in a pecilous condition in consequence of interference with its concerns by the State authorities of New Hampshire; and Sept. 19, was dismissed with a view to his entering upon the duties of that office. Having lived to carry the College through its embarrassments, Dr. Brown closed his eventfully useful life, July 27, 1820, at the early age of 56 years. At one o'clock of the day of his death, the students of the College were seen "walking solitary among the trees; or else seated in their chambers, they opened a book only to close it again, till at length the uncalled note came in solemn cadence from the College bell: upon every heart it struck, / a voice from eternity." Mrs. Brown, still living at Hanover, is a daughter of Mr. Gilman, whom Dr. Brown succeeded in the ministry. A great grand-daughter of Mr. Gilman is the wife of a pastor now settled over one of the churches formerly within the limits of the town.

Rev. Joseph Waite Curtis, of Windsor, Vt., was ordained the sixth pastor of the church June 5, 1816. Prayer, by Dr. Jenks of Bath; Sermon, by Dr. Payson of Portland; Ordaining Prayer, by Mr. Lancaster of Scarborough; Charge, by Mr. Eaton of Hooperwell; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Scott of Minot; Prayer, by Mr. Thurston of Winthrop, Jan. 22, 1817, in depressed spirits and ill health, though beloved by the people, Mr. Curtis resigned his pastoral charge. He has since been a useful laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, in the State of Ohio.

After a vacancy of less than a year, Mr. Samuel Woodbury, of Aeworth, N.H., was ordained, Nov. 5, 1817. Prayer, by Mr. Merrill of Freeport; Sermon, by Dr. Appleton of Bowdoin College; Ordaining Prayer, by Mr. Scott of Minot; Charge, by Mr. South of Canterbury; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Mitchell of Waldeborough; Prayer, by Mr. Thurston of Winthrop. Mr. Woodbury's health soon began to fail; and June 6, 1819, he died at Groton, where he was spending a time with his friends, in the hope of recovering vigor to return to his labors.

The Rev. Asa Cummings, eighth pastor, a native of Andover, Ms., was ordained February 14, 1821. Prayer, by Mr. Thurston of Winthrop; Sermon, by Dr. Allen of Bowdoin college; Ordaining Prayer, by Dr. Payson of Portland; Charge, by Mr. Moreley of Rev. Genester; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Whiton of 2d church; Prayer, by Mr. Merrill of Freeport. Mr. Cummings, laboring under physical disabilities which rendered it hazardous for him to continue to preach, and having already, for about two years, been employed in editing the Christian Mirror, the religious newspaper of Maine, February 17, 1829, retaining the undimmed affections of the people, fully resigned his pastoral charge, and on the day following, Feb. 18, 1829, the present pastor was ordained. Prayer, by Mr. Miltimore of Falmouth; Sermon, by Mr. Peet of Norridgewock; Ordaining Prayer, by Dr. Tyler of Portland; Charge, by Mr. Cummings, late pastor; Right Hand of Fellowship, by Mr. Merrill of Freeport; Prayer, by Mr. Peckham of Gray.

OTHER CHURCHES.

For many years, the people were gathered in one place for worship, some of them travelling by land or water five and even ten and twelve miles. Occasionally preaching was provided in different sections of the territory; the pastor sometimes preaching at different places, and sometimes having an assistant furnished him, the expense being defrayed from the common treasury. At length, however, new and important churches and parishes came into existence. With these there have been, for the most part, entirely friendly relations. If the original church was not, in one or two instances, so ready to part with its members, as could have been wished, there may have been circumstances tending to create temporary reluctance, and palliating it; while the wisdom of the measure of forming new societies was unquestionable. It has not been all loss to the ancient church. The churches have been, and are, mutually helpers of each other. Names of ministers of the new congregations, both of the departed and of the living, will be mentioned with reverence and affection, in the original Parish, to children and children's children; some of them to be regarded with scarcely less interest than those of their own pastors. Many generations will have passed away before the young will cease to be told of the fearlessness, the integrity and the piety of the Patriarch of Harpswell; and who shall attempt to make an estimate of the value, to the whole region, of the life and labors of the remarkable first pastor of Pownal.

In Harpswell, incorporated as a Second Parish in North Yarmouth, in the year 1750, and, as a town in 1758, a church was gathered in 1753, and Rev. Elihu Eaton, formerly minister of the Third Parish in Braintree, was installed its Pastor. He died of a cancer on the lip in 1764, and the same year was succeeded by his son, the Rev. Samuel Eaton. Rev. Thomas Loring of North Yarmouth, Smith of Yarmouth, and Allen of Cope Libeck, were the constituting council of the church in Harpswell. The elder Eaton preached his own installation sermon. Samuel Eaton, born in Braintree, was fitted for College by "Master Moody" of York, and graduated at Harvard College in 1763. He was employed one year in teaching in the town of Scarborough, where the Hon. Rufus King was his pupil. Before settling at Harpswell he had preached at New Gloucester, and been invited to become the minister of that town. At Harpswell his salary was fixed at £66 13s 4d, and there he went in and out before the people blessing them and leading them for about fifty-eight years, till his death in 1822, at the age of 86 years. He was never married. In the winter of 1821, the year preceding that of his death, he was living with a nephew brought up by him, attending to all his ministerial duties, and taking the exclusive care of eleven head of cattle, invariably fed by him before the rising of the sun. Rev. Elijah Kellogg is the present pastor at Harpswell.

Freeport. In the year 1771, a meeting-house was erected in the N. E. part of the town in 1789, Freeport was incorporated. Dec. 21, of that year a church was organized; and a few days after Rev. Alfred Johnson was ordained its pastor. After sixteen years Mr. Johnson, at his own request, was dismissed and settled at Belfast. Rev. Samuel Veazie, the second minister of Freeport, was settled in 1806. He was soon found to be the prey of helpless consumption, that scourge of New England, and Feb. 5, 1813, "while confined to his chamber, in the house of Mrs. Veazie's mother, the lower part of the house was discovered to be in flames. He was with difficulty removed to the house of Mr. Bartel, his brother-in-law, in one of the most severe snow storms known for many years. The exposure was thought to have accelerated his exit, which took place the next day." Mr. Veazie was followed by Rev. Gemben Nason, 1810; Rev. Elias Merrill, 1816; Rev. Cephas H. Kent, 1832, and in 1857, by Rev. Ebenezer G. Parsons, the present pastor.

Cumberland. In the year 1791 the "North West Congregational Society" was incorporated, and a church having been formed, Rev. Rufus Anderson was ordained its pastor, Oct. 22, 1791. After ten years Mr. Anderson was dismissed, and settled in Accabonac. His successors have been Rev. Amasa Smith, settled 1806; Rev. Jonathan Stone, 1811; Rev. Isaac Weston, 1830, and Rev. Joseph Blake, 1841; the last of whom is the present Pastor.

In the year 1757 The Baptist Society was incorporated, the church gathered, and Rev. Thomas Green settled in the ministry. Their meeting house at the corner was erected in year earlier. The pastors of that church following Mr. Green have been Rev. Sylvanus Boardman, settled in 1819; Rev. Otis Whiton, 1816; Rev. Dr. Stephen Chapin, 1819; Rev. Solomon Peck, 1825; Rev. Alonzo King, 1826; Rev. John Butler, 1831; Rev. Zabdiel Bradford, 1837; and Rev. Wm. Jacobs, the present year.

Second Church. The present Second Church in North Yarmouth was gathered, Oct. 1, 1805, and the same day, Rev. John Dutton was installed Pastor. He was dismissed in 1811, and subsequently settled in Pownal, Vt. Mr. Dutton was succeeded by Rev. Otis C. Whiton, in 1813. The Rev. Caleb Hobart, third pastor of the Second Church, whose installation was Dec. 3, 1823, sustains a pastoral relation of greater age, with a single exception, than any other minister in the Conference of Cumberland.

Pownal. In 1811, a church was gathered in Pownal, which was set off from North Yarmouth as a part of Freeport, and incorporated as a separate town in 1808. Rev. Perez Chaplin, from Benson, Vt., and a graduate of Middlebury College, was pastor of this church from the time of its organization, till his lamented death in the year 1839. Rev. Arid P. Chute afterwards became its pastor; and his successor is Rev. Wm. V. Jordan.

The Cong. t. Church, organized in 1823, and whose pastor, settled in 1821, was Rev. Noah Cresey, 1833, became extinct, its members uniting with other churches.

The Universalist Chapel was erected in 1831; and the society organized about that period have had successively the ministrations of Rev. Messrs. Zenus Thompson, B. R. Taylor, George W. Quincy, James Whittier and Henry R. Walworth, the last being the present incumbent. There are several other churches, particularly of the Baptist and Methodist denominations, within the limits of the ancient town.

STATE OF RELIGION.

The inhabitants, previous to the Indian wars, do not appear to have been governed by religious or high moral aims, but at the permanent resettlement, about 1720, the town received an accession to its inhabitants from the south shore of Massachusetts, whose influence became predominant, and was as beneficial as it was decisive. Among them were direct descendants of Miles Standish, John Alden, Stephen Hopkins, Francis Cooke, John Carver, Edward Winslow, Wm. Bradford, George Soule, Wm. Brewster, and others, who were landed at Plymouth from the Mayflower.

There has not been the absence of circumstances adverse to the prosperity of religion. Among these may be mentioned the fact, that before the town became permanently settled, vital godliness had much decayed in New England. Many ministers, if correct in sentiment, were only speculatively correct; and in many churches, if the forms of religion were still maintained, the power of it was well nigh lost. In a mitigated form or degree, the church in North Yarmouth undoubtedly felt the influence of this state of things, during the greater part of the first fifty years of its existence. Again, the half-way covenant in use generally, at that period, was adhered to by this church for about eighty years. This usage could not but have a tendency to raise the most solemn acts of religion to be regarded as unmeaning ceremonies, and was extensively one of the causes of the passing away of the distinctness and fervor of piety possessed by the first Pilgrims, though from causes to be adverted to in the sequel, in North Yarmouth, there is not evidence of evil consequences to the extent that might have been anticipated. There have been, also, short periods of "strife among brethren." Such in a degree, was the period at which the church in the part of the town, now Cumberland, was formed, when considerable unpleasant feeling existed; which was increased by a shade of difference in the philosophical views of the excellent Pastor of the new church, and the venerable pastor of the old church; and which was augmented, so as to occasion the temporary suspension of the usual expressions of fellowship, as a consequence of a reception, by the First Church, on the advice of an ex parte council, of two members of the Second Church, who were under its discipline. And when, in 1829, the New Meeting House was built, and the worship was removed, from the Foreside to the Falls, and the "Chapel Church" was formed by those members who resided in the vicinity of the old meeting-house, there was a degree of excitement produced inconsistent with the highest spiritual comfort of Christians, and with the best religious prosperity. Other difficulties have been less considerable and less enduring. At some periods, in Divine Providence, and without fault on the part of ministers or people, the change of pastors has been a frequent occurrence; and during the time of their incumbency from ill health the labors of the pastors have been frequently either curtailed in amount, or rendered less vigorous.

These, and other things, have exerted an influence assisting the naturally powerful tendencies of human nature to resist the gospel of the grace of God. Still the church originally planted in North Yarmouth has been singularly blessed; and it might be found difficult to disprove the truth of a statement in relation to it, made by the Rev. Dr. Gilbert, in the American Quarterly Register, of the year 1810:—¹⁰ No church in the State has been more constantly blessed with the means of religion, or has more uninterruptedly enjoyed prosperity.¹¹ The conditions on which the Head of the Church has bestowed this prosperity, the means and elements of it, it is not at all impractical to discover.

The fact is not to be disregarded, that Christian institutions and the permanent settlement, in the town, had a simultaneous commencement. The ecclesiastical even preceded the municipal organization; and before the church was formed, the preaching of the gospel was regularly sustained by the people.

The founders of the church, and the leading men who speedily became connected with it were truly pious men. Puritanism, as planted in the town, had experienced the chills of a severe winter, but it was still a living thing. Hence usages, naturally tending in that direction, did not, in this church, produce all the evils which was their usual effect; hence the time never was, when the church could be satisfied with other than an evangelical ministry; and hence the principle has ever been recognized, that a church is to consist of regenerate members.

The church at North Yarmouth was founded also on the fundamental principles of Congregationalism; that a church is a body of Believers who meet in one place for religious worship, bound together by a covenant embodying what they believe to be the laws of Christ's kingdom; that they have full power to regulate and determine every thing pertaining to the government of their own body; that nothing relating to the discipline of the church can be made a law, nor can a pastor be imposed on them, or be wrested from them, without their own consent; nevertheless, that in cases of discipline involving difficulty, and in transacting business of importance, especially in the ordaining and dismissing of pastors, obligation exists to invite the advice of neighboring churches; whose advice, as being the counsels of wisdom and piety, is not to be deviated from, except for substantial and obvious reasons. On these principles the affairs of the church have been managed for one hundred and eighteen years. It has been the established policy to have few written statutes, and dispensing even with standing committees, to have all business brought before the whole body of the church, and disposed of according to the laws of Christ's kingdom, the whole number of Brethren being the judiciary. Owing to a variety of causes, this church has had an unusual share of ecclesiastical business to transact; and it, at any time when difficulties have been protracted, and ultimate decisions have been of slow attainment, may have been tempted to wish for an ecclesiastical head, separate from the particular church, ultimate results have, in all cases, been such as to demonstrate that the precepts of the gospel with the established usages of the churches, are sufficient for every emergency; that the surest way to secure the purity and peace of the church, is to have the members themselves responsible for decisions; that it is as expedient as it is scriptural, to guard the church from coercion, permitting no foreign earthly influence, save that which can be obtained by reason, scripture and prayer.

Instruction has been held to be an essential characteristic in Sermons. Preaching has been generally of an intellectual as well as doctrinal character. The doctrines of the gospel have been exhibited with distinctness, plainness and much of reiteration—not a few doctrines to the neglect of others, but the whole system of the religion of Christ. Few congregations have, probably, been called to listen to a less amount of controversial preaching, in the proper sense of that term; while at the same time, few have for so long a period, had a succession of pastors, feeding them with the sincere milk of the word. The sermons of Gilman Brown and others, as derived from the scriptures, and mendicating in a naked manner their searching, plain truths, were clothed with a majesty above that of the productions of mere rhetoricians and orators; and produced effects which mere address & show can never produce. The results of such preaching have been, decided and stalwart, in character, elasticity and energy in spirited movement, the benevolent, somewhat remarkable, of descriptive sentiments, together with the turning of the sinner from the error of his way.

It was a specific engagement of the founders of the church: "We do give up our offspring with ourselves, and put them under the blessings of God's covenant, purposing with his help to do our part in the methods of a Christian education, that they may be the Lord's."

In past years the children of the members have been generally baptized, instructed, governed, and made subjects of special prayer. And the catalogue exhibits a repetition, often, of the same name, down three, four, five and six generations. There are instances in which a early member has had, in the church, a posterity of more than a hundred, and even of more than two hundred and fifty souls. Whole and large families of children have been given, at the prayers of parents, who have in faith dedicated them to God. And if, in the town, the gospel has not languished for want of support even in times of monetary depression, if the church has not been visited with that worst curse with which God ever visits his people, the disruption of its own body by the defection of its members to another gospel, if the faith once delivered to the saints has been more generally adhered to by the people than is common, if they have been marked as exhibiting an affectionate deportment towards their pastors, attending upon the ministrations of the sanctuary, and sustaining religious institutions at home and elsewhere; it is doubtless to be attributed, in great part, to impressions made and habits formed, through the influence of parent upon child, from age to age. "They saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, because ye have obeyed the commandment of Jehovah, your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according unto all that he hath commanded you; therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Jonadab, the son of Rechab, shall not want a man to stand before me forever."

The number of members admitted to the church by profession during Mr. Cutler's ministry was not inconsiderable. Mr. Loring received from the world, and from other churches, from one to twelve per year; except in the year 1735, when it is said that the town was, in a degree, a partaker in the shower of Divine influence with which the churches of the country were about that period refreshed. During the ministry of Mr. Brooks, and the first part of that of Mr. Gilman, the annual admissions ranged from one to nine. The year 1791 was distinguished by a remarkable revival of religion in the town, the influence of which has been for good, to the present time. "The three years from 1795 to 1800," says Pres. Brown, "seem to have been distinguished for great inattention to religion." In 1808, there was a revival of religion in the North-west Society, (Cumberland,) and a degree of unusual attention in the first parish. During the whole term of Dr. Brown's ministry, religion was in a prosperous state. The year 1822 was one of mercy under the ministry of Mr. Cummings. During the progress of the interest that year, Rev. John Crosby, then a student in Bowdoin College, afterwards pastor at Castine, whose early death the churches had cause to mourn, spent some months in the town, and on his return to Brunswick, to the question whether the people in North Yarmouth were animated, replied: "Preaching there is very solemn, and is listened to with a solemn interest."

More recently, the years 1830 and 1831 constituted an era not soon to be forgotten. In 1837, a number of youth were made hopefully the subjects of renewing grace; and in 1840, the things of the eternal world, for some months, were made to occupy the arrested attention of a large portion of the inhabitants of the town.
